

With over 15,500 students, four departments with more than 270 professors and more than 1,000 employees in teaching, research and central service units, Frankfurt University of Applied Sciences is one of the largest universities of applied sciences in Germany. "Opportunities through education" is our living motto. Practical relevance, interdisciplinary education, international orientation and regional integration characterize our profile. Diversity and social responsibility are our values. We are sustainable in all dimensions. Excellent quality in teaching and research is our aspiration.

The following position is to be filled for the winter semester 2024/25 in Faculty 4: Social Work and Health:

Professor (W2 salary scale HBesG, Hessian Federal Civil Service Remuneration Act) in the following subject area: Ethics and care Job advertisement number P01/2024

We are looking for a person with a proven track record in theory and practice with the ability to work scientifically in the fields of ethics, care theory as well as care ethics, pedagogical competence and subject-related experience in the field of application. We expect a sound knowledge of current ethical discourses, relevant scientific publications as well as participation in application-orientated research in the field of ethics and care.

As a post holder, you should represent the field of ethics and care and have experience in the following areas

- clinical and non-clinical ethics counselling or collaboration in ethics committees or ethics commissions
- economic, organisational and socio-ethical issues in the field of tension between precarious conditions on the one hand and professionalisation and self-determination discourses in the care and healthcare sector on the other
- social discussions on assistive technologies, artificial intelligence and digitalisation

You will be responsible for these topics in the teaching units of the department, particularly in teaching and research in the nursing and health-related Bachelor's and Master's degree programmes. The establishment and management of an ethics committee in the department is also desirable, in which questions of research ethics can be dealt with as well as advice on ethical issues in final theses. Non-university collaborations with healthcare and nursing care institutions should be intensified, established and expanded.

We expect the following from our lecturers: A high level of presence at the university and intensive supervision of students; participation in basic education, i.e. Representation of the respective subject area in an introductory form in all degree programmes of the department; aptitude and inclination for research and acquisition of third-party funds; gender and diversity competence; participation in the international activities of the university; participation in the interdisciplinary Studium Generale; contributions to the university's offerings in continuing education, lifelong learning and eLearning; assumption of responsibility within the framework of academic self-administration; continuous further training in subject-specific science and university didactics; willingness to cooperate with other universities in the region across locations; high social competence, commitment and initiative.

The ability to teach in German and English is a prerequisite, as are a university degree and a doctorate.

For further information, please contact Prof. Dr Klaus Müller by email at mueller.klaus@fb4.fra-uas.de

The position is available for an unlimited period of time. When first appointed to a professorship, employment is initially on a probationary civil service basis or on a permanent employment basis with a three-year probationary period.

Conditions of employment, further duties and prerequisites result from §§ 67 - 69, 75 and 76 of the Hessian Higher Education Act; to be viewed at www.hmwk.hessen.de.

We value diversity and therefore welcome all applications - regardless of gender, nationality, ethnic and social origin, religion/belief, disability, age, and sexual orientation and identity. People with disabilities are given preference in cases of equal personal and professional suitability. As a holder of the "Family-friendly University" certificate, the university will take your individual family situation into account when organizing your working hours.
