

◆ BACKGROUND

The primary objective of this collaborative project is to develop a well-structured, research-based curriculum that can seamlessly integrate into the social study programs of each partner institution. Additionally, the project aims to foster the growth of emerging researchers by providing them with exposure to academic settings that can enhance their research capabilities and career opportunities. As a result, this initiative seeks to contribute significantly to the body of knowledge and evidence in social work and other applied social sciences.

The partnership among the participating universities dates back to 2011, and they have engaged in various collaborative efforts, with a particular focus on social work, welfare policies, and applied social research. Over the years, these institutions have demonstrated a strong commitment to internationalization by actively promoting inbound and outbound mobility, offering international and transnational academic programs, engaging in global research networks, and establishing robust connections with local, regional, and international partners for academic collaboration, civil society linkages, and policy engagement.
