

APPGM-SDG IMPACT EVALUATION PROGRAM WORKSHOP

Via Zoom Meeting
23 October 2021
9.00 am - 5.00 pm

Localising SDGs is the process of adapting the content of SDGs to a specific locality by taking into consideration the needs of the people most affected by a certain issue, the cultural norms of the community and stakeholders' commitment. Through APPGM program, 4 phases of implementation are in place: Issue Mapping and Project Design, Solution Implementation, Monitoring and Evaluation (M&E) including Impact Assessment, and Final Reporting.

Under the APPGM program, there are 34 Solutions projects which were being implemented in 2020. The progress of those projects must be monitored and evaluated for its impacts. M&E is an integral part of any project to assess the impact of a project. Monitoring is viewed as a process of gathering information to compare actual use of project inputs and completed outputs with the planned use of inputs and completed outputs. Evaluation is the process of gathering information to assess the effects and impact of a project.

Evaluation of impacts takes into account the impacts of the projects on beneficiaries and stakeholders. The inputs should be reflected in outputs. M&E APPGM is seen as a pioneering effort to mainstream gender into the evaluation of SDGs programmes at the local level and subsequently at the national level. While the focus on gender was substantive at the Mid Term review, the focus of MIE will be on implementation and Impacts. Generally, M&E has the four phases of M&E which are design, planning, implement and impact.

This workshop was funded by APPGM- SDG and DAAD (through IWAAC-10 project).
